NARRATIVE  Mistubishi were involved in a traffic collision and had pulled into the Mobile gas station on the south/west corner of Bolsa and Goldenwest. Dispatch further advised they could hear an argument in the back ground of the caller. While I was en route to the location, dispatch updated the call to a hit and run. They said one of the parties involved was leaving the scene in a blue pick-up truck and was being followed by the victim. Dispatch gave a license plate of [REDACTED]. They further stated that the victim lost sight of the suspect vehicle in the area of Goldenwest and McFadden and they were going to meet officers at the "I-Hop" restaurant at 15122 Goldenwest. When I arrived at the I-Hop, dispatch advised the plate on the suspect vehicle returned to a, "Gerry Serrano." VICTIM [REDACTED] STATEMENT [REDACTED] told me he was south bound on Goldenwest, stopped for a red light at the Mall Access Rd., when his vehicle was struck from behind by a male white, driving a blue pick-up truck. The male, later identified as Gerry Louis Serrano, walked up to the driver's side door after they pulled over and stopped at a gas station. Serrano became nervous when he realized [REDACTED]'s wife was on the phone with police and told them they could take care of everything themselves and he could not stay at the scene. He told them he could pay them money, but then became insulting towards [REDACTED]'s wife. [REDACTED] told Serrano he should watch what he says about his wife. Serrano then got into his vehicle and left the location, south bound on Goldenwest. [REDACTED], believing Serrano was attempting to flee the scene of the collision, followed Serrano, but stopped when the police dispatcher told him not to follow the vehicle any longer. [REDACTED] said he believed Serrano left the scene prior to police showing up because he was possibly intoxicated. I asked what made him believe he was intoxicated. [REDACTED] said Serrano's speech was slurred when he was speaking with him. I asked if he could identify the driver if seen again and he said yes. I asked if he desired prosecution for hit and run and he said yes. A few minutes later I received information that Serrano was returning to the scene and that he may have exchanged information with [REDACTED]. I asked [REDACTED] if he exchanged information with Serrano and he said no. His wife, [REDACTED], then told me that Serrano "threw" a white index card into their vehicle just prior to leaving. The card contained

Serrano's name and a phone number. [REDACTED] said they tried to call the number, but it just rang and no one picked it up. They also had a difficult time reading the name written on the card as it was not legible. I later verified the phone number on the card matched Serrano's phone number. I received a cell phone call from Westminster Police Detective B. Jaipream. He told me he had been contacted by Serrano via telephone. Det. B. Jaipream said he instructed Serrano to return to the scene of the collision. At that point a blue pick-up truck with the license plate number of [REDACTED] arrived at the scene. I asked [REDACTED] if that was the truck and he said he wasn't sure. I then asked if the person driving was the same person who collided with his vehicle. [REDACTED] and his wife both looked at the driver and said they could not tell because he was wearing a hat. The driver of the truck was not wearing a hat at the time of the collision. After Serrano exited his vehicle, both [REDACTED] and his wife positively identified Serrano as the driver of the vehicle that struck their car. Refer to PSO J. Belton's report for additional details regarding the traffic collision investigation. ARRESTEE GERRY LOUIS SERRANO'S STATEMENT When Serrano arrived at the scene, I asked him about the collision. He told me they were south bound on the "405," when the driver of the other vehicle, [REDACTED], "slammed" on his breaks and he was unable to avoid a collision. They pulled over and started to exchange information with each other when [REDACTED] became angry and threatened to kick his ass. Serrano said he was not going stay if [REDACTED] was going threaten him. Fearing for his safety he left the scene in his vehicle. While speaking with Serrano I could smell the odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from his breath. I asked him to remove his sunglasses and he did. At that point I noticed Serrano's eyes appeared watery and bloodshot and his speech was slurred. I asked Serrano if he had anything to drink and he told me "No." I then attempted to perform a Nystagmus test by

having Serrano follow my finger with his eyes. His first attempt failed as he moved his head instead of his eyes. His second attempt stopped when he put his hat back on and refused to complete the test. In the few seconds I was watching his eyes, I noticed he had a lack of smooth pursuit as he tracked my finger to his left. I was not able to determine a horizontal angle of onset; however, the Nystagmus started almost immediately indicating to me that Serrano had some alcohol in his system. I also noticed that while speaking with him he began to sway in a circular motion and he appeared tired. Serrano then told me that he has been a cop for 20 years and I should be arresting [REDACTED] for "422" (terrorist threats). He repeated several times that he did not leave the scene without leaving information. He was asked why he did not contact police if he believed he was a victim of a crime. He told me that he did; however, what Serrano did was contact a detective from the Westminster Police Department. He then stated that he called the detective because he did not have a phone number to the Huntington Beach Police Department. I didn't understand why he would contact a Westminster detective to obtain a Huntington Beach Police phone number. Further, I did not understand why as a 20 year police officer he simply did not call "911". It has been my experience that people impaired by alcohol will often make irrational statements that don't make sense to others. Cpl. Weber and Cpl. Knauerhaze were present while I was speaking to Serrano. Refer to their supplemental reports for additional information. While speaking with Serrano, he became more and more angry and at times confrontational. It has been my experience when dealing with individuals who have become impaired by alcohol that they will be defensive and argumentative. I asked Serrano if he would be willing to perform a series of Filed Sobriety Tests (FSTs) to help determine if he was capable of safely operating a motor vehicle. Serrano would respond by saying he did not understand why he needed to perform a FST. He also said he did not know what an FST entailed. The FST was explained to him several times and eventually Serrano said "No". At that point, based on Serrano's driving (being involved in a traffic collision), statements from witnesses, and objective symptoms of being under the influence of

NARRATIVE  alcohol, I determined Serrano's driving ability had been impaired by alcohol and was the primary collision factor. Serrano was placed under arrest for 23152(a) CVC. While attempting to take Serrano into custody, I felt his arms and hands tense up and he began to pull away from my grasp. I asked Cpl. Weber to grab hold of his arm to assist me with safely taking Serrano into custody as those impaired by alcohol will often become violent. Once Serrano was handcuffed he began telling me, and the other officers on scene, that we were sick, pathetic, and we had better not come to Santa Ana. Again, it has been my past experience dealing with impaired drivers that they become belligerent and insulting as a result of alcohol. I then transported Serrano to WPD for booking. Prior to leaving the scene, I looked in Serrano's glove compartment for a copy of his registration and insurance. Inside the glove compartment I saw a metal flask commonly used for holding alcohol. The top was open and there was nothing inside. His vehicle was then locked and left at the scene. Once in the jail, Serrano's behavior continued to escalate; especially toward me. While escorting him through the hallway to the jail, he pulled away from my grasp twice. In the uncuffing cell he attempted to "chest bump" me. Once he was uncuffed and as he passed me in the booking area, he turned suddenly and placed his left hand, balled into a fist with his middle finger extended, approximately ten inches in front of my face and said "I'm not threatening you. You're a piece of shit!". Throughout the booking process Serrano would stare at me and call me an "asshole" and a "piece of shit". As well as numerous other expletive words. I ignored Serrano as I believed it was simply the alcohol that was impairing his judgment. While at WPD Serrano was given a Chemical Test Admonition (per CVC 23612), by Sgt. A. Iwashita. He was asked to submit to a breath or blood test and he refused both. Lynn Fulton (LVN) for California Forensic Phlebotomy Inc. (CFP), responded to WPD to perform a forced blood draw on Serrano after he refused to submit to a chemical test; however, based on Serrano's behavior in the jail, it was determined unsafe for Fulton to preform the test. A copy of the refusal form was placed in the case file.

he waited at the light. P2 said P1 proceeded S/B on Goldenwest and made a left (E/B) turn onto Georgetown Avenue. P2 said he followed P1 and they parked along the SCL of Georgetown Avenue.

P2 said P1 told him they could take care of the damage themselves (without getting insurance involved). P2 said he did not know what to do in this situation so he called his brother. P2 said his brother advised him to call the police. P2 stated he believed P1 "was drunk." P2 said as P1 spoke to him, he was "slurring his words." P2 said P1 "kept saying 'I'll handle it, I'll handle it,' referring to the damage to P2's vehicle. P2 said as P1 realized he had called the WPD, P1 said he could not "hang around here" and attempted to leave.

P2 said prior to P1 leaving the scene, P1 began to "get disrespectful" to his wife. P2 said his wife ( ) asked P1 for his driver's license. P2 said his wife was not being rude or yelling at P1. All of a sudden P1 said something like "you're going to let your wife control you?" P2 said he told the dispatcher to get someone there quickly because P1 was starting to get rude.

P2 said at that point, he opened his door with his foot in the opening between the door and the car. P2 said P1 was pushing against his door preventing him from getting out. (P2 demonstrated by leaving body against the door.) P2 said the dispatcher told him to stay in his car. P2 said P1 "wasn't trying to work it out, he was getting scary."

P2 said he followed P1 (S/B) on Goldenwest Street until he was advised by the WPD dispatcher not to follow P1. P2 said he was advised to wait for the officer to respond. P2 said he turned about near the Jon's Market sign (approximately 530' S/of Georgetown Avenue). P2 said the dispatcher then told him he could follow P1. P2 said he attempted to catch up with P1 but believed he lost P1 in the area of Goldenwest Street and Edinger Avenue.

P2 stated he did desire prosecution if/when P1 was located.

Passenger ( ) seated in right front passenger seat in vehicle 2 stated following the collision they followed P1 onto Georgetown Avenue. ( ) said she was outside of the vehicle when her husband spoke to P1. ( ) said she kept telling her husband not to let P1 leave. ( ) said as P1 kept saying "we'll handle this now...I'll pay you." She said P1 said they should not call insurance. ( ) said she asked P1 for his ID. ( ) said she told P1 he hit them to which P1 said it was not a big deal. She said P1 again commented "let's just handle this," to which ( ) replied "no, we're calling the police."

She said P1 threw a card with his information into the car. ( ) did not remember if P1 was on the driver or passenger side when this was done. ( ) said P1 said to her husband you're letting your wife control you. Shortly after this exchange, P1 "took off." ( ) said when P1 returned to the scene they were advised not to look in P1's direction. ( ) stated before receiving this direction she noticed P1 was wearing a hat (a red baseball cap with a yellow/gold R on the front).
